IMI Foot Mobile Assault Bridge (FMAB) Systems Supports US Marine Forces in Afghanistan

Ramat Hasharon, Israel: Israel Military Industries Ltd. (IMI) was awarded 4 Dec 2009 a contract to provide the USMC forces in Afghanistan with Foot Mobile Assault Bridges (FMAB). The FMAB is a lightweight, aluminum alloy, tactical vehicle transportable, manually erected, assault bridge. It is rapidly assembled, employed and retrieved by both engineer and non-engineer personnel - without assistance from the far shore. The bridge enables fully equipped Marines and other personnel to cross wet or dry obstacles such as canals, streams, gullies or ravines.

FMAB first deliveries took place on 24 Dec 2009. Serial deliveries - ongoing.

IMI is a leading provider of land combat systems solutions, spanning decades of development, production and support of armored combat and combat support vehicles systems for Israel Defense Forces and World wide customers.
